The wonder is that this great country with all its immeasurable wealth of soil and mineral deposits, its vast extent of mountain and prairie, mineral and timber of every description, and its transportation facilities, is not the most prespectis, powerful and contented nation on the face of the curf in his dusting the property of the curf of the curf.

An examination of the false and discriminating financial and economic systems of the country which burden the producing and manufacturing class with a load of extravagance and usury for the support of millions of nonproducers will disclose the cause of this national anoually. This class of men, whose busness is to create their own necessity in the theory of our government and, through wealth uncarned by them, secure a power over the fortunes of the nation as fatal to liberty prosperity and peace as can be conceived.
